No. 77 7 August 2025

Retail Prices Index

The Retail Prices Index ("Index") for the quarter ended 30 June 2025 has now been completed.

The Index has increased by 0.1% to 125.181. The change in the Index over the year to 30 June 2025 has been 0.3%.

Date	Index	Quarterly % Increase/ (Decrease)	Annual % Increase/ (Decrease)
30.06.2024	124.810	0.5%	2.5%
30.09.2024	123.056	-1.4%	-0.1%
31.12.2024	124.045	0.8%	0.5%
31.03.2025	125.059	0.8%	0.7%
30.06.2025	125.181	0.1%	0.3%

Inflationary pressures levelled off slightly in quarter 2 2025, with an annual increase of 0.3% from quarter 2 last year. The quarterly change was less pronounced, with a slight increase of 0.1%. The inflation figure for the quarter was largely driven by increases in the food and housing categories, as well as the drop in fuel prices and audio/video equipment averages.

Annual change: 'Fuel and power' represented the biggest annual change (-1.3%) as kerosene and diesel prices continue to drop from their highs in 2023. The stability of the electricity price over the last 12 months meant that there was no inflationary pressure from the rest of the category. Unsurprisingly, the lower price of diesel had an effect in the transport category, which posted a 0.2% drop. 'Food and non-alcoholic beverages' dropped 0.5% over the year, in keeping with the trend from last quarter. 'Household goods and services' represented the largest increase in the 12-month period, although this is largely down to increases in earlier quarters. 'Housing' costs increased by 0.5% fuelled largely by building supplies.

Quarterly change: 'Recreation and culture' represented the biggest drop in the quarter at 0.7%. This is largely down to the audio/video equipment sub-category. 'Fuel and power' marked the second largest drop in the quarter, while quarterly increases were concentrated in the 'food' and 'housing' categories, the latter being largely down to an increase in the cost of building supplies.

Fuel and power: Fuel prices continue to drop from their 2023 highs, with kerosene falling by 6p to 93p/litre and diesel by 2p to 64p/litre over the quarter. Kerosene carries a greater weighting in the basket of goods than diesel and consequently contributed considerably to keeping inflation in check over the quarter along with the stable electricity price.
