No. 104 28 October 2026

Retail Prices Index

The Retail Prices Index ('Index') for the quarter ended 30 September 2026 has now been completed.

The Index has increased by 0.9% to 131.780. The change in the Index over the year to 30 September 2026 has been 4.3%.

Date	Index	Quarterly % Increase/ Decrease	Annual % Increase/ Decrease
30.09.2025	126.349	0.9%	2.7%
31.12.2025	126.626	0.2%	2.1%
31.03.2026	126.379	-0.2%	1.1%
30.06.2026	130.652	3.4%	4.4%
30.09.2026	131.780	0.9%	4.3%

Quarterly change: As is common in the third quarter, changes to government fees and charges introduced in July had the greatest impact on the quarterly Index figure. Postage, rent, and vehicle tax led the way in driving up inflation for the quarter. Kerosene prices dropped since June, which helped keep inflation in check, but the impact of that drop was moderated by the slight increase in diesel prices. Non-energy categories remained relatively stable, suggesting that the impact of higher shipping costs has thus far been limited.

Annual change: The large quarterly increase witnessed in quarter two continues to set the tone for the 12-month period. Therefore the annual change for quarter three, while tempered by the moderate quarterly figures from quarter four 2025 and quarter one 2026, remains high at 4.3%. Fuel and transport remain the categories with the greatest upwards movement, while housing remains the lowest due to drops in building supply prices witnessed in late 2025/early 2026.

Outlook and conclusions: Volatility in the oil markets continues, with oil prices reaching $115/barrel in October. Forecasts for 2027 largely expect that figure to fall in 2027 as inventories rise and demand drops. However, the unpredictability of geopolitical tensions in the Middle East mean that forecasts retain a high level of uncertainty. Further pressure on the diesel markets could have a marked impact on the Index.
